

RIA Endovascular is now offering HSG Testing!

Our center is now offering Hysterosalpingogram (HSG) testing. A convenient and affordable outpatient procedure which is performed by certified technologists and radiologists in the comforting surroundings of our clinic.

What is an Hysterosalpingogram (HSG)?

An HSG is an X-ray procedure, which uses fluoroscopy, an imaging technique. Through a fluoroscope, we can see the inside of the uterus, fallopian tubes and surrounding areas. During an HSG, we inject a dye through a thin tube. This tube is inserted through the vagina and into the uterus. The fluoroscope then photographs the dye as it passes through the uterus and into the fallopian tubes.

Is an HSG covered by insurance?

Most insurance companies cover the exam if the patient is symptomatic (i.e. painful menstrual cycles, etc.) and if your health care plan covers fertility treatments. You should contact your insurance company with questions if you are not sure.

How do I schedule an HSG?

Call our clinic at 720-493-3406. If you're allergic to iodine or x-ray contrast "dye", please alert us when you make the appointment.

An HSG should be performed on any day up to day 10 of your menstrual cycle.

Why would I get an HSG?

The most common reasons for an HSG include:

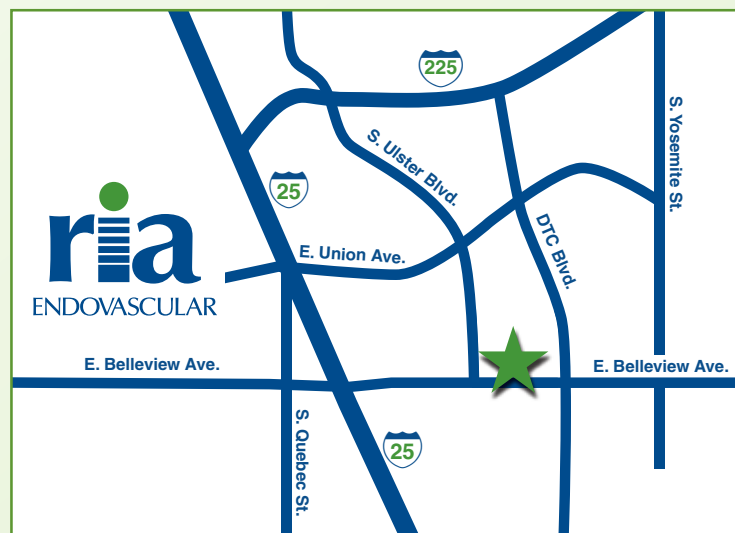

- To find a blocked fallopian tube in women who are having difficulty becoming pregnant.
- To find abnormalities in the uterus, such as polyps, fibroids or adhesions
- To determine if tubal ligation surgery was successful
- To evaluate the effectiveness of permanent contraception methods such as Adiana and Essure
